Agni-Prime Missile Has Been Successfully Flight-Tested In Odisha

- Agni-Prime Missile has been successfully flight-tested in Odisha.
- The flight-test was conducted by Strategic Forces Command (SFC), along with Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) from Dr APJ Abdul Kalam Island off the coast of Odisha.
- Agni-Prime is a new missile that looks similar to Agni-III but has reduced weight by half.
- It is designed to replace older generation missiles like Prithvi-II (350 km), Agni-II (2,000 km), Agni-III (3,000 km), and Agni-4 (4,000 km) ballistic missiles.
- Agni-Prime has many upgrades like new propulsion systems, composite rocket motor casings, and advanced navigation and guidance systems.
- The main goal of developing Agni-P is to achieve maximum manoeuvrability against missile defence systems and higher accuracy for precision strikes, making it more difficult for enemy forces to defend against.

Q. What is the strike range of Agni-Prime Missile that has been successfully flight-tested in Odisha?
1,000 to 2,000 km

Scientists Discover An Ocean 700 Km Underneath Earth's Surface

- Recently, scientists from Northwestern University in Evanston Illinois discovered a reservoir that is expected to hold triple the volume of water on the Earth's surface.
- This water reservoir is somewhere around 700 km below the Earth's surface.
- This discovery was made in a bid to understand the origin of the Earth's water.
- It's worth mentioning that this enormous ocean in the Earth's mantle is concealed with a Blue Rock, known as ringwoodite.
- As it happens, this latest discovery challenges the notion about where the earth's water came from, as people tend to believe that it came through comet impacts.
- As a result, the latest discovery shows that the oceans might have seeped out from the Earth's core! In case they're wondering, the researchers took the help of a range of 2000 seismographs across the United States.
- After this, they analyse seismic waves from over 500 earthquakes.

Q. Recently, scientists at Northwestern University in Evanston Illinois have discovered a reservoir that lies approximately ___ km below the Earth's surface. 700
