Meet Jyoti Ratre, Oldest Indian Woman To Conquer Mt. Everest At 55

- Jyoti Ratre, an entrepreneur and fitness enthusiast hailing from Madhya Pradesh, has etched her name in history by becoming the oldest Indian woman to summit Mount Everest.
- At the age of 55, Ratre achieved this remarkable feat.
- Ratre's achievement comes exactly six years after Sangeeta Bahl, who, at the age of 53, claimed the title of 'India's oldest woman to climb Mount Everest' on May 19, 2018.
- This marked Ratre's second endeavour to reach the summit of the world's tallest peak.
- Unfortunately, in 2023, she had to abandon her ascent at 8,160 meters due to adverse weather conditions.
- On the other hand a 16-year-old class XII student of Navy Children School, Kaamya Karthikeyan became the youngest Indian and the second youngest girl in the world to summit Mount Everest from the Nepal side.
- In a unique father-daughter feat, Kaamya, along with her father Cdr S. Karthikeyan of the Indian Navy, successfully submitted the 8849 m Mount Everest summit on May 20.
- Kaamya has now completed six milestones in her mission to summit the highest peak of all seven continents and aims to summit Mt. Vinson Massif in Antarctica this December to become the youngest girl to accomplish the Seven Summits Challenge.

Q. Jyoti Ratre, who became the oldest Indian woman To Conquer Mt. Everest At 55, hails from which state? Madhya Pradesh

S. Korea to develop LEO satellite communications system by 2030

- South Korea's Ministry of Science and ICT to develop a low Earth orbit (LEO) satellite communications system has passed a preliminary feasibility study and will officially begin next year.
- The science ministry said that the 320 billion won ($234.3 million) LEO project, also known as South Korea's Starlink, aims to launch two LEO satellites based on the sixth-generation (6G) communications network technology by 2030.
- The ministry also plans to create a demonstration LEO satellite communications system network to support South Korean companies to independently develop core technologies for the system, such as satellite tracking, handover and link, and help them expand their global business.
- The ministry is allowed to allocate its budget from next year and start the project.
- An LEO satellite, placed in an orbit 300 to 1,500 km in altitude, can provide high-speed communications with short latency thanks to its close distance to Earth compared with geostationary orbit satellites.

Q. Recently which country has allocated $234.3 million fund to develop a low Earth orbit (LEO) satellite communications system? South Korea

German author Jenny Erpenbeck wins International Booker Prize for tale of tangled love affair

- German author Jenny Erpenbeck and translator Michael Hofmann won the International Booker Prize for fiction “Kairos,” the story of a tangled love affair during the final years of East Germany’s existence.
- Erpenbeck hoped the book would help readers learn there was more to life in the now-vanished Communist country than depicted in “The Lives of Others,” the Academy Award-winning 2006 film about pervasive state surveillance in the 1980s.
- “Kairos” traces an affair from utopian beginning to bitter end, and draws parallels between personal lives and the life of the state.
- The International Booker Prize is awarded every year. It is run alongside the Booker Prize for English-language fiction, which will be handed out in the fall.
- Last year’s winner was another novel about communism and its legacy in Europe, “Time Shelter” by Bulgarian writer Georgi Gospodinov and translated by Angela Rodel.

Q. Name the author of the fiction “Kairos”, the story of a tangled love affair during the final years of East Germany’s existence, who has won the International Booker Prize 2024?

Jenny Erpenbeck
